* Deceased Members

A number of LSU Health New Orleans faculty members have been appointed to top spots nationally, affecting national health policy and resources, research development and direction, patient care, and educational quality and standards.

- Emeritus professor and founding dean of the School of Public Health, Elizabeth Fontham, DrPH, was appointed to the board reviewing the National Cancer Institute's entire intramural research program for allocation of resources and new areas of development.
- Patricia E. Molina, MD, PhD, was elected president-elect of the American Physiological Society. When she assumes the presidency next year, she will be the first Hispanic female to lead the oldest US society in the biomedical sciences.
- Nursing dean Demetrius Porche, DNS, APRN, is the first male to be elected President of the Southern Regional Education Board's Council on Collegiate Education for Nursing.
- Eugene Woltering, MD, was appointed Chair of the Neuroendocrine Tumors (NETs) Expert Panel for the American Joint Committee on Cancer (AJCC) Cancer Staging System, 8th Edition. Recognized as the authoritative guide for cancer staging information, it is used by tens of thousands of medical professionals every day.
- NRG Oncology, a national cancer clinical cooperative group funded by the National Cancer Institute, appointed Lorrie L. Powell, PhD, RN, to its newly created Cancer Care Delivery Committee.

- Robert Barsley, DOS, JO, was appointed chair of a subcommittee of a National Institute of Standards and Technology committee that establishes national forensic science standards and guidelines for crime labs.

Our research enterprise continues to draw millions of dollars of outside investment to the state. The funding supports our work to solve some of the most urgent health problems affecting Louisianans – cardiovascular disease, alcohol abuse, HIV, diabetes, hypertension, cancer, childhood obesity, deadly intra-abdominal infections and more.

- LSU Health New Orleans faculty successfully competed for $53 million in grants in FY 2014. The value of research funding for FY 2015 is already approaching $40 million.
- The innovations of LSU Health New Orleans faculty have resulted in a number of patents, the latest of which was awarded last month for a new method to treat drug-resistant eye infections.
- LSU Health New Orleans was invited to be the sixth site to participate in a clinical trial taking a revolutionary approach by matching patients to medications targeting the genetic changes fueling the growth of their tumors.

Enrollment has risen to a historic high of nearly 3,000 students. We continue to supply Louisiana's health professions work force, having awarded nearly 37,000 degrees to date.

With our six professional health schools, LSU Health New Orleans is in the vanguard of the shift to interprofessional education – teaching whole teams of health professionals instead of isolated disciplines. We're changing curricula to formalize this emphasis.

Our School of Public Health was ranked #15 in the Top 25 Public Health Grad Programs based on student and graduate ratings.

Construction of the $27.3 million state-of-the-art Human Development Center facility in our School of Allied Health Professions was completed this year. Move-in will be completed and programs begun early in the new year.

Our Dental School's Summer Enrichment Program is successfully increasing the diversity of our school and the profession.

An economic impact study released this year found that LSU Health New Orleans generated $888 million in sales, more than $390 million in earnings, and more than 6,900 jobs (direct and indirect) in metro New Orleans.

We are blessed to have such supportive partners as the LSU Medical Alumni Association and the LSU Health New Orleans Foundation, who each, among other contributions, provided $2.5 million to construct the Cardiovascular Center of Excellence.
