Biographical Sketch:

I have been affiliated with LSU since I first entered into the field of medicine. I went to LSU in Baton Rouge for my undergraduate degree and then straight into LSU Medical School in New Orleans. This was followed by LSU Internal Medicine Residency and an attending position as an academic hospitalist. I am currently the Director of Hospitalist Services at Ochsner-Kenner Medical Center in charge of an academic hospitalist program. I also function as the LSU Director of Residents and the LSU Director of Education at that site. I am very passionate about ideals of patient care and the importance of effective teaching and education of our future doctors. My hobbies center around sports, as I am an avid Saints, LSU, and Hornets fan.
