

Who can help you to accomplish your research goals?

The Faculty Interest Database (FID) is maintained by the School of Medicine, and anyone can search the database to learn who in the LSUHSC community has expertise in specific research techniques, access to specialized equipment, or specific clinical interests.

However, individual faculty members need to input their information in order to be included in the search results. The link to the webpage is below. Click on the Faculty Interest Database on the left hand side of the webpage. If you would like to be included in the database, please logon and enter your information requested. You can enter your research interests, relevant expertise, available equipment in your lab etc.

- 1) Go to the following link: <http://www.medschool.lsuhschool.edu/research/>
- 2) Click on the "Faculty Interests Database" link in the "Research Resources" box on the top left.
- 3) log in and then click on the "Edit Interests" link on the left.
- 4) follow the instructions to add your information

Some Hints:

<http://www.medschool.lsuhschool.edu/research/> When it prompts for your username, please enter lsumc-master\ before your username and then use your LSUHSC password to find or enter information and share research interests with the LSUHSC community.
