About the Scientific Session
This course is designed for urologists engaged in the comprehensive management of patients with urologic diseases. Practicing urologists will be exposed to current updates in the urologic field with an emphasis on the complex medical issues resulting from an aging patient population. Urologists will gain greater understanding of the advances in medical devices, drug therapies and enhanced treatment protocols resulting from the latest research and dynamic changes to the practice of urology. The scientific session is designed to introduce and reinforce treatment protocols for specific diagnoses to ultimately improve patient population health.

What You’ll Learn
Learners will have the opportunity to engage in didactic lectures from experts in urology including practice updates and question and answer sessions. As a result of attending this activity, learners will:

- Define potential uses of transvaginal mesh and describe current recommendations for pelvic organ prolapse and stress urinary incontinence
- Understand the role of chemotherapy in management of UCC and the relevant clinical trials
- Identify symptoms of pelvic floor dysfunction and discuss treatment options after diagnosis.
- Be able to describe telemedicine’s opportunities, challenges and Louisiana regulations for providing patient care.

Accreditation
The Louisiana State University School of Medicine-New Orleans is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide medical education for physicians.
