News from the Division of Hematology/Oncology

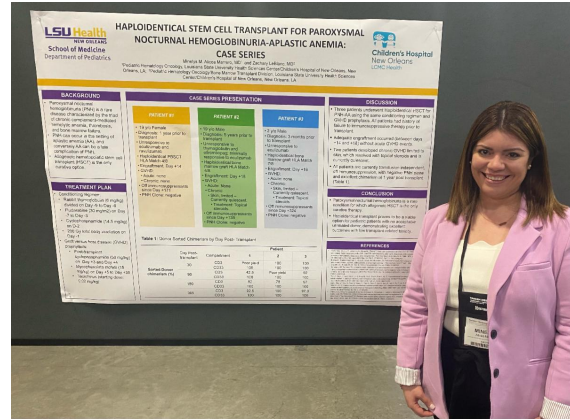

Several members of the Division of Hematology Oncology attended the annual meeting of the American Society of Pediatric Hematology Oncology in Pittsburgh earlier this month. Dr. Pinki Prasad was asked to be the Chair of the Professional Development Committee at ASPHO and Dr. Dana LeBlanc was named the Vice-Chair for Hemoglobinopathies Special Interest Group at ASPHO.

2nd year fellow Jordan Doss presented the following posters at ASPHO:

1. The Effect of Methotrexate on Neuroinflammation and Associated Neurologic Sequelae
2. A Rare Case of Adenoid Cystic Carcinoma Presenting as Chronic Pharyngitis

3rd year fellow Dr. Minelys Alicea Marrero presented the following posters at the recent American Society for Transplantation and Cellular Therapy Annual Conference in Salt Lake City:

1. Immunization Status and Response on Pediatric Post Hematopoietic Stem Cell Transplant Patients
2. Haploidentical Stem Cell Transplant for Paroxysmal Nocturnal Hemoglobinuria-Aplastic Anemia: Case Series

#NationalAdolescentHealthMonth

#HealthyYouthNAHM

May is National Adolescent Health Month

During NAHM, encourage physical health and healthy decision-making.

Join the Office of Population Affairs during National Adolescent Health Month to encourage adolescents' physical health and healthy decision-making. Youth begin to take more responsibility for their physical health during adolescence. They can learn to make healthy food choices, be physically active, limit social media use, and engage in their own healthcare, including making healthcare appointments and staying up to date on vaccinations. Parents, caregivers, and youth-serving adults can encourage and support adolescents during this time.

School of Medicine Faculty Development Committee Presents

Knowing, Doing, and Being a Leader in Academic Medicine and Science

R. Kevin Grigsby, MSW, DSW

Participants in this workshop will emerge with an understanding of how knowing, doing, and being a leader are required for success as a leader in academic medicine and science. Participants will learn how awareness (mindful presence), integrity, authenticity, and a commitment to something "bigger than self" allows leaders to persist and persevere in the face of setbacks, breakdowns, and barriers.

Friday, June 10, 2022

Lion's Building, 6th Floor

12:00-1:00 p.m. Networking Lunch

1-4:30 p.m. Workshop

In-person Only

Registration is limited

May Video: Clinical Teaching Simplified

As we continue our mission of providing excellent medical education, check out this video. It provides a simple, efficient and effective method of teaching medical students and residents in a variety of clinical settings. It addresses major concerns (TIME!) and provides practical tips, and there are great references for those who would like to learn more.

Sheldon L. Kaplan, MD, earned his medical degree from the University of Missouri School of Medicine. He then completed his Pediatric Residency and Pediatric Infectious Disease Fellowship training at St. Louis Children's Hospital and Washington University School of Medicine.

He then moved to Texas and joined the faculty at Baylor College of Medicine and Texas Children's. He has earned numerous awards in recognition of his teaching and excellence as a physician, including the European Society for Paediatric Infectious Diseases Distinguished Award for Education and the Distinguished Physician Award for the Pediatric Infectious Diseases Society. Dr. Kaplan is a prolific researcher, focusing on infections in children caused by Streptococcus pneumoniae and Staphylococcus aureus. His research also evaluates new antibiotics for children with infections caused by antibiotic resistant bacteria.

Objectives: At the conclusion of this activity, participants should be able to:

1. Know how the routine administration of pneumococcal vaccines to children in the United States has resulted in declines in invasive and local pneumococcal disease in children
2. Be familiar with the studies assessing "replacement pneumococcal serotypes" as well as other streptococci that may be on the increase causing infections in children as PCV serotype disease decreases in children
3. Be aware of the expanded serotype coverage associated with newer PCVs close to licensure.

Intended audience: This activity is specifically directed towards the pediatrician, but it is open to all other interested physicians, residents, medical students, and allied health professionals.

CME statement: Children's Hospital is accredited by the Louisiana State Medical Society to provide continuing medical education for physicians. Children's Hospital designates this live activity for a maximum of 1.0 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

CNE statement: Children's Hospital is approved as a provider of nursing continuing professional development by Louisiana State Nurses Association, an accredited approver by the American Nurses Credentialing Center's Commission on Accreditation. Provider #4003155. To receive credit, you must attend the entire program and submit a post program evaluation.
