A Message from the Dean

Our School has a rich and vibrant history. These are exciting times to study medicine. Our School has been extremely fortunate in continuing to attract the best and brightest minds to learn the science of medicine and the art of compassionate care. We expect our learners to grow not just in knowledge but also in compassion, curiosity and commitment. Our faculty are deeply passionate about their work and are dedicated to our School and the community we serve. Together this is a powerful combination that promises a bright future for healthcare in Louisiana. Our evolving public-private hospital partnerships are creating new and exciting opportunities for our learners and faculty alike. These relationships are the foundation upon which we continue to build a dynamic future that leads the way in pioneering novel therapies and providing exceptional care to our patients.

Our ability to continue our march forward has been supported in large measure by our unstoppable spirit and the extraordinary resilience of our students, our faculty and our staff. There are numerous examples of excellence across our core mission areas of patient care, research and education, none of which would have been possible without the hard work and diligence of our “LSU family.” Key to our continued success has been the unwavering loyalty and generosity of our alumni. I want to take this moment to thank each and every one of you. Your good will and commitment to our School has provided the funds necessary to support our drive towards excellence.

Sincerely,

Steve Nelson, MD, CM, FCCP, FACP

Dear Dr. Fontenot....

I wanted to personally thank you and the Alumni Association for your support of this year's Camp Tiger. The Alumni Association's sponsorship covered the costs for FIVE Campers to attend! It is through generous supporters, like yourself, Camp Tiger is able to grow each year. Thank you again for supporting our class!

Dear Dr. Fontenot...

I would like to sincerely thank you and the entire Alumni Association for awarding me this scholarship. I am extremely excited to learn that I am a recipient for financial assistance. It will be of great help to me in paying for my education expenses. I am so grateful, not only to have the opportunity to learn medicine at LSUHSC, but also to have such strong support from my school's alumni. Thank you again for your generosity and support.

Dear Dr. Fontenot...

I am so honored and humbled to be the recipient of the Charles Alford, MD, Memorial Scholarship. I wish to extend my deepest gratitude to you and the Alumni Association. I have always had a passion for women's health and plan to dedicate much of my career to helping fight for healthcare access and equality for all patients. Thanks again.

Purple & Gold Gala 2018

The LSU School of Medicine Alumni Association held the 13th Annual Purple and Gold Gala—a Masquerade Party—on Saturday, November 10, 2018, at the Roosevelt New Orleans. Silent auction items included artwork, sports items and vacation packages. Entertainment was provided by Louisiana Spice. Photos from the Gala are featured in the next few pages.

LSU Investigators Receive VA Research Funding

Among the institutions with a history of medical research and advancement in Southeast Louisiana, the LSU School of Medicine and the Southeast Louisiana Veterans Health Care System are certainly two of the most storied. Recently, these institutions have embarked on a partnership that could result in further breakthroughs in health care for Veterans and the general public.

In December, the Southeast Louisiana Veterans Health Care System opened its new research facility, an 80,000 square-foot lab and administrative space inside the former Dixie Brewery. The opening was a momentous event for the VA and the local community, and it had significance for LSU research as well. Among the investigators conducting research at the facility will be several from LSU.

Currently there are three LSU biomedical researchers who are funded by the Department of Veterans Affairs and who will be working at the Southeast Louisiana Veterans Health Care System under the direction of Dr. Joseph Constans, who heads research for the health care system.

Dr. Si-Qiong Lui is a professor at LSUHSC and has recently been awarded a research grant from the VA. As she explains it, her lab is focused on “understanding neurobiological basis of stress-enhanced learning. In particular the mechanism(s) that determine how a stress-induced decrease in endocannabinoid levels can lead to mood disorders.” She is experimenting with currently available drugs to determine if they could present novel strategies for treating PTSD.

Dr. Eric Lazartigues will be researching another that is of interest to both the VA and the general public: hypertension. His work will center on whether angiotensin converting enzyme type 2 can be used to promote the processing of angiotensin to lower blood pressure. He shared that he is excited about this new endeavor. “Working with the VA is a great opportunity, as it will allow me to work next to other researchers from LSU to share ideas, and eventually get input from people who are working in different areas.”

Dr. Nicholas Gilpin is exploring connections between PTSD, alcohol use disorder and pain. He is working to develop therapeutic strategies that will safely treat chronic pain, thereby potentially helping Veterans avoid the dangers of self-medicating with alcohol. He explained, “I became interested in [addiction] research because I’ve lived around people with addiction, but the stress and pain angles are newer components of my research program.”

Bringing about these research partnerships required the vision and efforts of many people within both organizations, including VA Medical Center Director Fernando Rivera, Medical Center Chief of Staff Dr. Ralph Schapira, and, of course, our own Dean Steve Nelson, MD.

Bobbie Millet

It really happened. After 50 years of loyal service to the LSU School of Medicine, our beloved Bobbie Millet retired on January 2, 2019.

She joined the School on November 11, 1968. She served in the Office of Student Affairs and, in that role, was a mentor, advisor, and confidante to thousands of medical students. Her memories include participating in and celebrating happy events in students’ lives as well as some of the not-so-happy events. Bobbie remembers only too vividly the times she was called to get a student or two out of jail (you know who you are.) Her favorite student activity is pre-commencement because her heart is touched when the medical students recite the Hippocratic Oath, which she calls “so meaningful.”

Bobbie Millet

In Bobbie’s own words, “I feel blessed to have been with my LSU family for 50 years.”

Longtime colleague Lindy Mills says, “How do you talk about 50 years of service without writing a book? Momma Bobbie loved LSUHSC Student Affairs and her students/graduates. Too many funny, sad and heartwarming stories. We would be here for days. Trips to courthouses, jail and hospitals come to mind. She would help in any way she could to make sure her ‘babies’ were taken care of. Love ya Bobbie, just as many others do... Lindy.”

Donations in Bobbie’s name may be made to the LSU Medical Alumni Association for the Bobbie Millet Scholarship Fund.

If you would like to contact Bobbie directly, her email address is: bobbiemillet@yahoo.com.

Just Dance from the Heart: Faculty Family Gives Back

According to Susan Leary, her husband, Dr. Richard Culbertson, was “a more serious person” when they moved to New Orleans 20 years ago. Then, one night while they were attending the popular event, Art for Art’s Sake, a samba band passed by. Before Susan knew it, Richard was following the band, dancing with abandon like a native-born New Orleanian. To Susan, that reaction sums up Richard’s attitude toward New Orleans and life in general. When you live from your heart, you can do no wrong; and that is just what the couple did in October 2016, when they surprised the schools they love with a generous gift to endow two professorships: The Susan M. Leary and Richard Culbertson Professorship in Family Medicine and The Richard Culbertson Professorship in Health Policy and Systems Management. For Susan and Richard, it is about honoring the profession of teaching, and giving back from the heart to their adopted city and state.

When the couple first decided to make the endowments, Louisiana ranked number 50 in health care by United Healthcare. Although the state has crept up to 49, few would argue there isn’t room for improvement.

Richard has served as professor and director of health policy and systems management in the LSU School of Public Health since 2012. From 2013-2015, he served as Interim Dean of the School. Richard and Susan say they received “philanthropic inspiration” from Dr. Terry Fontham, the first dean of the School of Public Health and Richard’s immediate predecessor, who gifted a similar amount to LSU for student scholarships.

“Our legacy, we hope, will recognize and attract faculty of talent and integrity to devote their careers to LSU Health New Orleans,” Richard said.

Both Richard and Susan believe if there ever was an admirable calling, it is family medicine. They are concerned by research that shows one-in-three primary care physicians are going to retire, become disabled, or die within the next seven years. With that statistic in mind and hoping to do something to improve the challenging issues facing family medicine, they endowed the Susan M. Leary and Richard Culbertson Professorship in Family Medicine.

Richard is Professor of Family Medicine at LSU School of Medicine New Orleans. In addition to his work at LSU, he has held faculty positions in family medicine at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, Indiana University, and Tulane University. He certainly understands how vital this area of medical practice is to every community, but even more so to the people of Louisiana.

Susan, who began her career as a social worker, tears up every time she thinks about the commitment of the family medicine teams she has worked with throughout her career – dedicated men and women devoted to improving the health of underserved populations, while working to educate adults about caring for their children, as well as themselves. Both Susan and Richard believe our society doesn’t value total patient care as it should.

“Doctors generally decide to specialize because that’s where the money is, but there is a real need for generalists who know more than one thing. They know how to care for children, adults, and the elderly – the whole family – yet somehow the money is in specializing,” Susan said.

Before moving to New Orleans, Susan taught family practice residents at San Francisco General Hospital—now, Zuckerberg—using a case-based approach for clinical quality. She met with the residents on a weekly basis, reviewing cases using clinical algorithms.

The couple’s second endowment is the Richard Culbertson Professorship in Health Policy and Systems Management. As a hospital board chair and CEO, Richard wants to influence the generations that come after him in health administration.

“One of the routes to the health of the public is through more organized and rationally designed health care organizations. It isn’t only about more frugal care, it’s about providing more appropriate care,” Richard explained.

Richard, who received the Allen Copping Award for Teaching Excellence in 2015, said, “LSU has given me a magnificent opportunity to teach students who are highly motivated and idealistic. They’ve allowed me to teach in an environment with small classes where I really get to know my students. It’s with great gratitude that we’ve endowed these professorships.”

Before moving to New Orleans, Susan and Richard thought a parade was something you watched; once here, they had the revelation that you can be part of the parade. By giving to LSU Health, the couple is doing more than standing on the sidelines watching as the parade goes by – they are in the procession throwing beads with the best of them, adding their own flair and passion to the parade, and making our schools and our community all the richer.

Society of Anesthesiologists Assistant Secretary

Kraig de Lanzac ('93), FASA, Assistant Professor of Clinical Anesthesiology, Tulane University School of Medicine, was elected to the office of assistant secretary of the American Society of Anesthesiologists (ASA), the nation's largest organization of physician anesthesiologists on October 17, 2018. Dr. de Lanzac assumed the office at the ANESTHESIOLOGY™ annual meeting in San Francisco.

"I am truly honored to continue to serve the American Society of Anesthesiologists in my new position as Assistant Secretary," said Dr. de Lanzac. "I will continue to work with our members and fellow officers dedicated to protecting our patients by maintaining and raising the standards of the medical practice of anesthesiology."

Dr. de Lanzac has held numerous positions in the Society. He served as chair of the ASA Committee on the Anesthesia Care Team and the Committee on Communications. He has been a member of several key ASA committees during his two decades of service to ASA. He has also represented Louisiana on the ASA Board of Directors since 2016 and served as Alternate Director from Louisiana from 2010 - 2016.

Dr. de Lanzac

He is the immediate past president of the Louisiana Society of Anesthesiologists (LSA) after serving three consecutive terms. He has been a member of the LSA Board of Directors since 1999 and served as LSA Legislative Chair from 1999 - 2004.

Dr. de Lanzac and his wife, Rhen, reside in Metairie, Louisiana. They have two children in college.

Ryan Vega ('11)—Diffusion
of Excellence Lead;
Hospital/Attending
Physician, Richmond, Va.
VA Medical Center

Ryan Vega ('11) is currently with the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) Center for Innovation where he serves as VA Diffusion of Excellence Lead, overseeing a national initiative aimed at identifying, diffusing and sustaining best practices across the enterprise. Prior to this role, he served as Chief of Quality for the Richmond VA Medical Center (VAMC) and as the liaison for Institutional-House staff Quality and Safety Initiatives. In this role, Dr. Vega designed a model and the supporting infrastructure that fostered the spread and adoption of resident driven quality and safety initiatives across the Richmond VA Medical Center (VAMC) and the Virginia Commonwealth University (VCU) Health System.

Dr. Vega completed his residency training in internal medicine at the VCU Health System in 2014. He went on to serve as Chief Medical Resident and as the VA Chief Resident for Quality and Safety at VCU from 2014 to 2015. He is a graduate of the Intermountain Advanced Training Program in Healthcare Quality and Research and recently completed his Master of Science in Health Administration from VCU where he was an A.D. Williams Scholar.

Dr. Vega has led multiple quality improvement initiatives and mentored several other quality improvement teams, including prior Chief Residents for Quality and Safety at the Richmond VAMC. Dr. Vega speaks regularly on the role of high reliability and continuous quality improvement, patient handoffs, teamwork in health care, and the role of communication failures in medical errors.

A New Era in Ortho: Announcing the establishment of the Randall E. Marcus ('75), MD, Professorship in Orthopaedic Surgery at Case Western Reserve University School of Medicine

When Randall E. Marcus ('75) went to Case Western Reserve University School of Medicine in 1975 for an internship and subsequent residency in orthopaedic surgery, he expected to spend only five years in Cleveland before returning to his native Louisiana.

Almost 43 years later, this “New Orleanian” is still there, has adopted Cleveland as his second hometown and is giving back to the university through a professorship he established with his wife, Katy.

Recently approved by the university’s board of trustees, the Randall E. Marcus, MD, Professorship in Orthopaedic Surgery is uniquely positioned to recruit a leader who is heavily focused on research and new horizons in orthopaedic care. Dr. Marcus intends for the professorship to anchor a state-of-the-future program in regenerative orthopaedics where the focus is on the repair, rather than the replacement, of ligaments, cartilage, tendons and bones.

“Case Western Reserve University School of Medicine has given me a wonderful career. I wanted to give something back to the university and my wife and I felt that we should take the lead,” Dr. Marcus said. “I have always been very interested in new and innovative treatments for musculoskeletal conditions and I believe that our School of Medicine is well positioned to be a leader in this area.”

Traditionally, orthopaedic surgery is focused on mechanical repair or replacement of damaged bones and joints — think total hip replacements and rotator cuff surgeries. But the new era in orthopaedics is radically different. Instead of mechanical solutions, researchers and physicians are beginning to look at biologic solutions for repairing cartilage and healing tendons and bones.

“I would say that everyone from young athletes to senior citizens can benefit from this,” Dr. Marcus said. “We are talking about harnessing the regenerative potential of a patient’s own cells to repair cartilage defects and promote healing. My long-term vision is to make Cleveland and Case Western Reserve a destination for translational research that will directly benefit orthopaedic care.”

As Dr. Marcus explained in a recent interview, Cleveland is already home to some of the some of the top orthopaedic doctors in the world, as well as legendary figures in related fields, including Dr. Arnold Caplan and his landmark work in stem cell biology, Dr. Roland Moskowitz’s tremendous expertise in rheumatology, and Dr. Victor Goldberg’s legacy as a world-renowned expert in joint replacement surgery, biomechanics, implant design and stem-cell research in osteoarthritis.

In addition, Case Western Reserve is home to the National Center for Regenerative Medicine (NCRM), led by Dr. Stanton Gerson. The researcher or physician-scientist selected to hold the Marcus professorship will be able to work closely with NCRM member scientists as well as utilize lab space there, which will allow for the rigorous testing of regenerative therapies in humans.

All of this, Dr. Marcus says, comes at a time when increasing our knowledge of regenerative therapies for musculoskeletal conditions and injuries is paramount. In a new paper he co-authored for the journal Clinical Orthopaedics and Related Research, Dr. Marcus discusses the increased use and media popularity of platelet-rich plasma, or PRP, to enhance musculoskeletal healing. He and other physicians are concerned about the popularity of these often-expensive “treatments” due to a lack of scientific evidence about their efficacy.

The paper concludes, “It is important for our profession to rely on good science when making treatment decisions to avoid the ethical pitfalls of promising and highly publicized, but unproven therapies.”

Under the leadership of Dr. Marcus, School of Medicine Dean Pamela B. Davis and the new Marcus professor, researchers in Cleveland will be well on their way to addressing this and many other challenges in the ever-evolving field of orthopaedics.

“The School of Medicine community is grateful to Dr. Marcus and his wife, Katy, for their leadership in establishing this chair,” said Dean Pamela B. Davis, MD, PhD. “Dr. Marcus has been an exemplary member of our faculty for more than 40 years and the Marcus professorship is such a fitting way to celebrate his outstanding career thus far. In keeping with his desire to always be on the leading edge of his field, the faculty member recruited to this professorship will serve as an anchor for a new program focused on making Cleveland and Case Western Reserve a destination for orthopaedic regenerative medicine.”

For more information or to get involved with innovations in orthopaedics at Case Western Reserve University School of Medicine, please contact Sophie Sureau at 216.368.0631 or sophie.sureau@case.edu.

Dr. Marcus alongside a portrait of his mentor Charles. H. Herndon, MD. Dr. Marcus is the last chair of the orthopaedics department to be trained by Dr. Herndon, a legendary surgeon and chair of orthopaedics at CWRU from 1953 to 1982.

~ In Memoriam ~

Dr. Berenson

Gerald Sanders Berenson, MD, renowned cardiologist and academic, died at age 96, November 22, 2018, in his sleep in Houston. He entered Tulane at 16, never retired, and was still developing new directions for his celebrated research in heart disease and obesity. Born in Bogalusa, Louisiana, September 22, 1922.

Proceeded in death by his parents Eva Singerman and Meyer Berenson, and his two sisters, Sara Stone and Byrde Haspel. He earned his medical degree from Tulane University, elected to AOA society; completed residencies in the Navy just as World War II ended. Then returned to Tulane, working with Dr. George Burch. Following that, he completed a two-year National Institutes of Health fellowship in pediatrics at The University of Chicago. He was the second person to receive both the Spirit of Charity Award and the American Heart Association Population Research Prize, as well as many other awards. He was ahead of the curve, in realizing that obesity in adults began in early childhood, the importance of preventive cardiology, and the ill effects of obesity. He, and his much loved wife, Joan, returned to the city they both loved, where he began his 37 years at Louisiana State University School of Medicine in New Orleans. He served as Section Chief of Cardiology, became a Boyd Professor, the highest academic honor in the LSU system, and taught over 4,000 medical students. While there, he visualized, conceived and developed the Bogalusa Heart Study that even today, after 46 years, shapes programs and broadens research. The family wants to thank Acy Hartfield for his continued support of the study. Gerald was proud of his active Navy service, and was an advocate for the WWII Museum. Besides academics, Gerald had a passion for Windy Hills Farm, Jewish life, and of course, his beloved and loving family. He treasured being surrounded by his family and traveling with them. He was married for 67 years to Joan Seidenbach. Together they had four children. Leslie, Ann (Richard Goldfarb), Robert (Irene), Laurie (Dale Maas). They were blessed with nine grandchildren, Aaron Berenson, David Goldfarb (Ann Axelrad), Stephen Goldfarb (Megan Breitenwischer), Andrew Goldfarb, Michael Berenson, Carl Berenson, Julia Berenson, Rachael Maas, and Benjamin Maas. As well as three great-grandchildren Maxwell Goldfarb, William Goldfarb and Gus Goldfarb, and numerous Labradors, which he adored. Every week for his entire life, he drove 100 miles to visit another love, Windy Hills Farm, in Poplarville, Mississippi. It gave him such pleasure to see his cows and talk with local farmers. For the last few years, he could not have made the drive without the help from Dr. Jihua Xu. The family is extremely grateful for this dedicated friendship. In 1961, Gerald and Joan were members of the first mission to Israel sponsored by the National United Jewish Appeal Young Leadership. This strengthened Gerald's love for Israel and Judaism. He never missed the Sunday morning Shir Chasdash Men's Club service and breakfast. His love for children and their well-being carried over into his Jewish life. He was honored by Jewish Children's Regional Service, National Council of Jewish Women Greater New Orleans Section, and the New Orleans Jewish Day School. Gerald was recognized by countless national and international organizations with many prestigious awards. Whether Jewish, medical, or agricultural, all represented equally important facets of his life. He was proud, but humble, always saying that his work was recognized because of the quality of the research and the caliber of those associated with it."

George Dewey Lyons, Jr (754) passed away on October 6, 2018, at the age of 90, surrounded by his loving family. He is survived by his adoring wife and lifelong partner of 64 years, Agnes Elizabeth (Betty) Lyons; his sons, George D. III and Michael; his daughters Shelley and Pamela; his eight grandchildren Alexandra and Isobel Pribil, Timothy, Jack, George, Catherine, Olivia and Grace Lyons. He is preceded in death by his mother, Rose Bordelon Lyons; his father George Dewey Lyons; and his son Timothy Newell Lyons.

Dr. Lyons

George was a lifelong resident of New Orleans, LA, and retired to his family cypress farm in Houma, LA, after Hurricane Katrina. He graduated from Jesuit High School in 1946 and played flute and piccolo (first chair) in the band. He joined the Navy shortly after graduation. He served in the Navy as a corpsman and returned to graduate from Southeastern University and LSU Medical School, where he completed a specialty in Otorhinolaryngology. While in private practice, Dr. Lyons (aka "Chief") began teaching at LSU Medical School in New Orleans and ultimately became Professor and Department Head of Otorhinolaryngology and Biocommunication, a position he held for over 25 years. George was a pioneer and recognized leader in the field of cochlear implants as well as interventional laryngeal and phonosurgery. Included in his academic and honorary achievements, George was an Emeritus Member of the American Academy of Facial Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery, the American Laryngological Association; a Fellow of the American Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology Society, the American Otolaryngological, Rhinological, and Laryngological Society, the American College of Surgeons, the Pan-American Society of Otolaryngology, the Society of University Otolaryngology; a Senior Member of the American Broncho-Esophageal Association, and the Triological Society. During his medical career, George is credited with over 150 medial publications. George loved teaching and had an unquenchable thirst for knowledge and travel. He combined these passions to attend and teach at medical schools around the world, including universities and hospitals in Africa, Indonesia, South America, Asia, Russia and Europe. George pushed education and training in the field of Otorhinolaryngology tirelessly and always gave his all to those who sought knowledge. George and his wife Betty were very active socially in New Orleans, participating in multiple social and philanthropic endeavors. He was a member of the Society of Colonial Wars, the Society of the War of 1812, and the Sons of the American Revolution. He helped form the Kam's Foundation to help the hearing impaired and his favorite charity was St. Michael Special School. George was a passionate big game and bird hunter. He enjoyed shooting clay target sports, as well. He had the philosophy that the best way to see a country, experience its culture and understand its people is through hunting in remote areas of the world. George was the founding President of the Louisiana Chapter of Safari Club International and an avid promoter of hunting. George bred, raised and showed several breeds of dogs during his life, but his favorite was hunting upland birds over his Brittany Spaniels. He was also a good angler and loved fishing the marshes of South Louisiana. A man of impeccable integrity, humility and character, George made a significant contribution to our world during his lifetime. He will be missed dearly by his family, friends, and the many physicians and surgeons he educated.

Robert Haydel, Jr., Houma, LA – "Great seeing everyone for the reunion. Sorry it was so hot. The company was much better than the venue. Sorry for all those who missed, we missed you. Just like the old days I am sitting in the back of the lecture hall with Chip Davis ('88). A shout out "ROAR" to Peter DeBlieux ('88). I was humbled, overwhelmed, and inspired by your heroic and brave leadership and example for the patients of Charity Hospital during and the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina. You exemplified greatness in commitment, dedication, service, compassion, empathy, sacrifice, and love of humanity. You are the LSU medical graduate we should all strive to be. From the bottom of my heart, thank you."

From your Alumni Office. . .

Dear All,

Greetings on behalf of the Medical Alumni Office. 2018 was a very successful year for the Alumni Office, celebrating reunions in June and the Annual Purple and Gold Gala in November.

Plans for 2019 are well underway as our office plans for the Committee of 100 – Champions of Excellence Banquet on May 30 with the reunions to follow on May 31 and June 1. Reunion weekend will be held at the Hilton New Orleans Riverside.

The 2019 Annual Purple and Gold Gala will be held at the New Orleans Marriott Hotel on November 2, 2019. Please save the date and come enjoy a weekend in New Orleans to benefit the LSU School of Medicine.

Thanks for your continued support of our alma mater.

Sincerely,
