May Video: Clinical Teaching "Simplified"

As we continue our mission of providing excellent medical education, check out this video. It provides a simple, efficient, and effective method of teaching medical students and residents in a variety of clinical settings. It addresses major concerns (TIME!) and provides practical tips, and there are great references for those who would like to learn more.

When you exit the Zoom meeting, you will be prompted to complete a short form to provide your name and email address. By completing the form your attendance will be counted. Thank you for your cooperation.

Jennifer Griggs, M.D., M.P.H., FACP, FASCO, is a Professor in the Department of Medicine in the Division of Hematology/Oncology and in the Department of Health Management and Policy in the School of Public Health at the University of Michigan. Her work focuses on quality of care, healthcare equity, patient-clinician communication, and end-of-life care. For the past six years, Dr. Griggs has coached physicians and physician leaders who aspire to live and lead with dignity. Known for her humor, fierce compassion, and gentle accountability, she is also a certified narrative medicine practitioner, a sought-after speaker, and an award-winning educator. She is also the host of the podcast, The Dignity Lab.

Objectives: At the conclusion of this activity, participants should be able to:

- Distinguish between coaching and mentoring, therapy, consulting, and sponsorship
- Summarize the evidence supporting coaching for physicians and give three examples of situations in which coaching might be successful
- Explain the key elements of a coaching culture in an academic medical center
- Describe the ways in which a coaching culture can address inequities in healthcare systems

Intended audience: This activity is specifically directed towards the pediatric provider, but it is open to all interested physicians, residents, medical students, nursing, and allied health professionals.

Accreditation Manning Family Children's is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Designation Manning Family Children's designates this live activity for a maximum of 1.0 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
