

Dr. Shawn McKinney
Professor of Surgery

Education

University of Southern Mississippi, Hattiesburg, MS, MPH Health Policy and Administration, 20108

Morehouse School of Medicine, Atlanta, Georgia, MD, 2017

Xavier University, New Orleans, Louisiana, BS Degree in Chemistry, Pre medicine, Magna cum Laude, 1993

Ursuline Academy, New Orleans, Louisiana, 1989

FELLOWSHIP:

Baylor University Medical Center

Department of Surgery, Dallas, Texas

Surgical Breast Oncology Fellow

July 2002-June 2003

RESIDENCY:

Morehouse School of Medicine

Department of Surgery, Atlanta, Georgia

July 1998-June 2002

Dr. McKinney is currently professor of surgery with LSU Health New Orleans. She has a demonstrated history in the field of breast disease and working in the hospital & health care industry.

As a practicing breast surgeon, the primary focus of her practice is in educating patients about their risk and executing the provided recommendations.

Her research is centered around young women with breast cancer, minorities and underrepresented communities with breast cancer and eliminating disparities. Reducing disparities is a critical factor, and she works closely with doctors at the University Medical Center of New Orleans to pursue innovative research to further aid in reaching underserved communities. Her position as Director of Breast Services at The University Medical Center in New Orleans allows Dr. McKinney to expand her interests in reducing disparities.

Dr. McKinney also is interested in researching other targets in triple negative breast cancer, especially in those who do not respond to neoadjuvant chemotherapy.

Professional Memberships

American Society of Clinical Oncology (ASCO) – 2021 - present

American College of Hospital Executives – 2018 – 2021

Mississippi State Medical Association – 2017 – 2020

National Consortium of Breast Centers – 2004 – present

American Society of Breast Surgeons, Policy and Advocacy Committee – 2003 – present