

School of Medicine Faculty Development Committee Presents

Intentional Leadership in Academic Medicine: Developing your Leadership Style Friday, March 31, 2023 1:00-4:00 p.m.

Eric Russ, PhD

Licensed Clinical Psychologist,
Louisville Psychotherapy Group
Executive Director,
Kentucky Psychological Association

Many individuals find themselves in leadership positions based on their clinical skills, yet they lack leadership training. This workshop will help you identify components of effective leadership and discuss how you can assess and improve your own leadership behaviors. We will provide an overview of what effective leadership looks like and review effective approaches for meetings and team communication. We also understand these approaches sometimes run against particularly challenging interpersonal interactions and will review techniques to working with difficult team members.

Learning Objectives:

- 1) Analyze your own leadership approach
- 2) Understand how to utilize effective leadership behavior
- 3) Apply effective team communication
- 4) Prepare to interact more effectively with difficult team members
