PROGRAM DIRECTOR'S REPORT

It is a very exciting time to be in academic medicine, especially in radiology residency programs. Starting October of this year residents will take the new American Board of Radiology's computer based CORE exam instead of Oral boards. This exam will be taken at the end of the third year and then residents will take a certifying exam 15 months after completing residency. In addition we are also transforming the way we run medical training programs as the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education (ACGME) begins the Next Accreditation System (NAS) this July. Radiology has volunteered to be a phase I specialty and we will be among the first resident training programs to begin the NAS. One of the core evaluation methods in the NAS will be Milestones, which is an assessment tool designed to evaluate how radiology residents compare to their peers across the nation. We are busy working to make sure that LSU Radiology is ahead of the curve in preparation for both the Next Accreditation System and the new radiology board structure.

NEW BUSINESS

- Dr. Raman Danrad, Dr. Robert Karl, and Dr. Richard Kuebler are now credentialed in the LSU HealthCare Network.
- The Pelican Project is heading to Lallie Kemp. Thanks to everyone for helping to cover Lallie Kemp while Dr. DiVittorio trains for EPIC, which will go live on May 11, 2013
