A Message from the Dean

A Message from the Dean

It seems appropriate at this time of the year to briefly give a “State of The Union” report on the School of Medicine. Simply stated, the School of Medicine is strong and rapidly moving forward and fulfilling all of our critical missions – teaching, clinical care, and research. Our applicants are among the brightest students in the State, our clinical activity has more than doubled, our research grants are among the highest in years, and our graduates are choosing to stay in our programs and in Louisiana at levels not seen in over 10 years. This is all due in large measure to our outstanding faculty, our continued ability to recruit strong candidates from across the country and the ongoing strong support of our alumni. All of this has occurred during a period of decreased funding for higher education. However, this continued trend of decreased support for higher education, and specifically for the Health Sciences Center and School of Medicine, will impede our ability to educate and train the physicians that will care for your family and mine. As you are well aware, 70% of physicians who practice in Louisiana trained in one of our facilities. It is also clear that a vibrant health sciences center yields high-skill, high-wage jobs that will drive our State’s economy and revitalize our communities. With these thoughts in mind, I would like to share with you a piece that was published in the Times-Picayune. I would urge you to seize whatever opportunity was afforded you to voice your strong support for our School and funding for higher education.

Dreams are Built on Education

Steve Nelson, MD Published in The Times Picayune

I am the son of immigrant parents who came to this country to find a better life for themselves and their children. Throughout my childhood my parents stressed the importance of an education and doing well in school.

I attended public schools and a state university. There is no doubt that any measure of success that I have attained is directly related to my good fortune to have been taught by a dedicated group of teachers who took great pride and satisfaction in their profession.

The current crisis in higher education in our state is threatening the future of your children and mine. Does anyone truly believe that the current and proposed cuts in higher education will in any way improve the education that our children receive?

What is the message that we are sending to our children? Will they be prepared to succeed in an increasingly competitive job market?

When you and I were young, we dreamed of what we would become as adults. A doctor? A lawyer? An engineer? A fireman? A teacher? Shouldn’t our children be able to dream as well?

A strong education should be a basic right guaranteed to all of our children. Without it, our wish for a brighter future for our children will never come true.

Sincerely,

Steve Nelson, MD, Dean

to the Alumni Office

I have been through some of the most trying times in my life these past few years, including being a medical student. These experiences have only made me a stronger and more determined person. This scholarship will help to ease the financial burden of medical school and help me on my path of becoming a physician. I offer my sincerest thanks for your continued generosity in offering this scholarship.

Sincerely...

Thank you for presenting me with the scholarship. I consider it an honor to even be considered for this award. I'm currently a second year medical student preparing for the USMLE Step I. This scholarship will help cover the cost.

I have not decided exactly what I would like to specialize in, but surgery and neurology are current interests. I have come to realize that I like working with my hands and the function of the brain.

o the Alumni Office

I am writing to thank you, the Alumni Association, and anyone else who may have played in role in selecting me for this award. The money will definitely help to make things a little easier, but the morale boost is something that I needed way more than money right now! I am so grateful, and I sincerely thank you for this award.

Sincerely...

LSUHSC student chosen for international meeting—Nick Melvan, an MD/PhD student at LSU HSC-NO, is one of 70 members of the US delegation of students chosen to participate in the 61st Meeting of Nobel Laureates and Students in Lindau, Germany, from June 26 - July 1, 2011. At the meeting, about 20 Nobel Laureates in Physiology or Medicine and 550 young researchers from around the world exchange ideas, discuss projects and build international networks.

Melvan, awarded an F30 Fellowship by the NIH, is conducting research in the LSUHSC Department of Physiology and Comprehensive Alcohol Research Center. His research explores the effects of acute alcohol intoxication on the innate immune response to bacterial infection. His studies investigate novel molecular mechanisms underlying impaired granulocyte production and the increased prevalence of systemic bacterial infections in individuals who abuse alcohol.

A NIGHT WITH THE STARS - Purple & Gold Gala

The LSU School of Medicine Alumni Association celebrated its 5th Annual Purple and Gold Gala on October 29, 2010, at the Sheraton Grand Ballroom.

The Hollywood-themed “A Night with the Stars” served as a major fundraiser for the Russell C. Klein, MD, Center for Advanced Practice at the LSU School of Medicine. The Center provides a variety of simulation equipment to support innovative, multidisciplinary education of students, residents and healthcare providers.

Silent and live auctions featured artwork, sports paraphernalia and vacation resorts. Entertainment by The Wiseguys provided opportunities for dancing and second lines.

Photographs from the Gala are featured here and on the next two pages.

Camp Tiger 2011

Every summer, buses of happy children make their way around the city of New Orleans. At an age when fitting-in is hard for anyone, Camp Tiger offers an opportunity for many of our campers to "just be one of the kids," without feeling singled out by their disabilities.

Camp Tiger was founded in 1985 by first-year students from the LSU Health Sciences Center New Orleans, School of Medicine. Its mission is to give special needs children an unforgettable summer camp experience and provide them with freedom to play, socialize, and express themselves as healthy, vibrant children. Since its inception, Camp Tiger has benefitted more than 1,500 children from the Greater New Orleans area and hopes to host over 150 children at the 2011 camp. Camp Tiger is organized and staffed each year by volunteers from the first-year medical class, who always look forward to the opportunity to work with these exceptional children and serve the community. This year, Camp Tiger will be held May 23-27 and will feature trips to the Global Wildlife Center, New Orleans Children's Museum, Audubon Zoo, and Aquarium of the Americas. Additionally, Camp Tiger will host a special Saint's Day Experience and continue the annual tradition of a banquet and carnival at Jesuit High School for campers and their families!

Camp Tiger not only provides lasting memories and laughter, but does this free of charge. The Annual Camp Tiger Benefit Auction helps provide the main source of funding for Camp Tiger each year. Camp Tiger's extraordinary program is now in its 26th year, and we hope to keep the good times – over twenty-five years of laughter, memories, and giving – rolling!

Camp Tiger 2011: Give Till it Feels Good.

The Annual Camp Tiger Benefit Auction is the largest fundraiser that supports Camp Tiger. This year's auction, "Laissez Les Bon Temps Rouler: Let the Good Times Roll," will be held on Friday, March 25th from 7-11 pm at the New Orleans Museum of Art, 1 Collin Diboll Circle (City Park at Esplanade).

Tickets ($30 each) may be purchased at the door or on our website, www.lsuhschool.edu/camptiger. Live auction Tickets are an additional $5. Questions, please email Erin Cahill at camptiger@lsuhschool.edu.

Update on LSU Student-Run Clinics

Just over one year ago, the LSU Student Run Homeless Clinics reopened their doors after a needed, post-Katrina overhaul. Since then, the clinics have seen and treated hundreds of patients, and involved over 150 medical students in volunteering. Community need, volunteer physicians, and students are always pushing the clinics forward – looking for ways to increase efficiency and expand services.

After sending two students to the Society for Student-Run Free Clinics conference in 2010, LSU was invited to present at this year's SRFC Conference. Seven members of LSU's Student Run Homeless clinic volunteer force attended this year's conference in Houston, TX, in January 2011. There, second-year medical students from LSU presented a poster outlining the changes that have taken place in the clinics – physically and administratively – in recent years. Another group of LSU medical students gave an oral presentation and ran a question-and-answer session on the development and progress the clinics have made, particularly in the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina. Attendance at the conference was partially funded by the office of the Dean of the School of Medicine.

The poster, presented by Tara Castellano and Ellen Connor, provided a timeline of events that led to the closing of the clinics after Hurricane Katrina, and the subsequent reopening of the clinics on January 30, 2010. The poster's primary goal was to present the newly developed clinic model and to highlight successes that the clinics have achieved since reopening.

Nearly forty schools were represented in the poster presentations, displaying various clinic models. "What stood out about our clinics, compared with the other models," said Tara Castellano, "is that we have been able to take care of 80% of our patients in-house – saving our patients' valuable time, and decreasing the burden on local emergency rooms." Other schools were impressed with the LSU's executive board organization and the successful partnership that had been developed and maintained with both the Dean's office and the greater LSUHSC community.

An oral presentation titled "Reestablishing the LSUHSC-New Orleans Student-Run Homeless Clinics Post-Katrina: Forming University and Community Partnerships," was given by Class of 2013 President, Renford Cindass, and Clinic Treasurer, Karmynah Hilaire. The presentation outlined many of the problems that the New Orleans community faced after Hurricane Katrina, including a 50% increase in the homeless population and decreased availability of shelters and medical care. LSU students have worked hard to build partnerships with local clinics and community outreach centers, as we all re-open our doors. Representative from other schools were interested to know how we function within the greater LSU system, and how we have established relationships with non-LSU clinics.

At the conference, LSU representatives attended a variety of presentations given by students and professors from various medical schools and student-run clinics across the globe. Their goal was to find new and innovative ideas to bring home to LSU. Looking to the future, they hope to expand their women's health services and establish an interdisciplinary model to include the LSU Schools of Nursing and Public Health. There are also future opportunities to collaborate with other student run free clinics from University of Florida, University of California in San Diego, and Harvard, to establish longitudinal studies that follow the greater impact that student run free clinics as a combined force.

The Society of Student Run Free Clinics Conference united great minds from different disciplines with ideas of improving healthcare in underserved populations. The conference expounded on opportunities that could possibly be incorporated into the LSU Student Run Homeless clinics, research collaborations to improve our practices, and ways to raise additional funding.

For more information about the LSU student-run free clinics and how you can donate or volunteer, please visit www.medschool.lsuhschool.edu/hclinic.

Dear Alumni,

As we move into the new year, I certainly hope all alumni had fulfilling holidays. We finished 2010 on a very strong note, with our largest Purple and Gold Gala to date, increased enthusiasm for the LSU School of Medicine Alumni Association, and marked new awareness and giving from our alumni base. The gala has remained our single largest event fundraiser and continues to exceed each year. Keep this event on your schedule for the new year ahead. Regional alumni events are underway with the intent being to update alumni on progress and projects at the School of Medicine.

The Center for Advanced Practice remains viable and filled to scheduling capacity. This center remains the dominant teaching facility in the country. Due to alumni support, the center provides magnificent tools for training and attracts Fortune 500 business. The students and the School of Medicine have benefited tremendously. We are very close to retiring the debt with less than 500 thousand dollars remaining. The debt reduction has been steady and, with dedicated giving, this facility will soon be financially relieved.

I would like to address a growing concern that all of us have in the State of Louisiana regarding higher education, and brief our alumni who live out of state and may not know the concerns. When all is said, we face a very real budget deficit that will affect higher education through monetary cuts in this legislative session and beyond. We are looking at a long-term problem. There is no windfall around the corner. Getting the new hospital funded, bonded, and built in this environment will be a challenge. I have a few suggestions on which I would like to elaborate.

Through personal experiences, I can tell you that legislators will listen and act on emails from their district. They will also listen to our trained doctors who live out of state. The average bill in the state legislature may get five calls, letters, or emails at most. Our alumni physicians are very well respected voters and carry much influence. Emailing your legislators (both house and senate) will get their attention. Tell them the importance of the LSU School of Medicine and your experiences. Most importantly, tell them what you expect from them now. Point out who is treating them NOW – where you were trained, and how this must be preserved for the future. For those out of state, let them know how much your school is respected. Log on to La.gov and send your message. Call those you know and demand an audience with them in person or on the phone. I assure you, the legislators will listen to all physicians in the state (not just New Orleans) and from all over the country. These legislators are eager to learn. The school can lobby, but believe me our voices hit home. Keep in mind that a majority of our legislative body is very green and will be overwhelmed. Make your message stick with them.

Dr. Nelson has repeated a funny yet pitiful story that is worth sharing. He was asked by a legislator, as a serious question, what our medical school graduation rate is as a way to measure the School's success or failure! This tells you that some of our governing body have no barometer on reading how or where our state doctors come from, much less learn and absorb what it actually takes to run a successful, vital medical school. Providing the best, well-trained physicians who will mostly stay in state is what we do. Thankfully, this is not across the legislative board – and many, such as our House Speaker Jim Tucker, do understand needs and roles and are willing to listen. This is not a message to grossly underestimate our legislators' abilities, but to educate them in an area where there is a void that needs filling.

In closing, our alumni have been fabulous. There are many ways to support your LSU School of Medicine. Educate the people of this state on what care we provide across all parishes and the need to keep this physician pipeline growing. As always, a big thank you for your continued generous financial support.

Sincerely,

A book is in preparation on the life, career and times of the late Dr. Arthur F. Fishkin, a former research biochemist in the lab of Gerald S. Berenson and a former Assistant Professor in the Department of Biochemistry under Fred Brazda. Dr. Fishkin worked at the LSU School of Medicine in New Orleans from 1958-1964. Dr. Fishkin passed away in May of 2011 at the age of 80 following a distinguished 50 year career as a research biochemist, teacher and academic administrator. His position at LSU was his first academic appointment. The book will trace his life and times from his birth in 1930 till is passing at age 80 in Omaha, Nebraska, where he was Emeritus Professor of Biomedical Sciences at Creighton University School of Medicine. The book is being written by his son Charles A. Fishkin of Chappaqua, New York. He is particularly interested in hearing from former students, faculty and acquaintances during his time in New Orleans who can share memories of him or who may have received letters from him then or over time. Charles Fishkin can be reached at charlesfishkin@hotmail.com.

From your Alumni Office. . .

Greetings to All,

The Alumni Office has hit the New Year full speed ahead, wrapping up our terrifically successful Fall Gala and planning for Reunion Weekend in June. This year we will be hosting reunions for classes: '46, '51, '55, '56, '61, '66, '71, '76, '81, '86, '91, '96, '01, at the usual site, the New Orleans Hilton, Riverside.

The Alumni Association has played a larger role than ever in medical student events such as Camp Tiger and the Student Run Homeless Clinics. Both are highlighted in this edition of your newsletter.

Your continued financial support has enabled the Association to reduce significantly the debt on the Russell C. Klein, MD, Center for Advanced Practice. Both this Center and the Isidore Cohn, Jr., MD, Student Learning Center continue to serve as real showplaces of learning for the School of Medicine. They are heavily utilized for student, resident, and professional educational programs.

I encourage all of you to stop by for a visit when you are in New Orleans and notify our office with any alumni news you might want to share in our newsletters or on our website. This office is here to serve you.

Sincerely,

Back cover: The Class of 2010, the first class to begin their course work in New Orleans after Katrina, is shown encapsulated in rebus artwork made by class members Rachel Breaux, Danny Robinson, and R. Alden McEwen III, printing courtesy of Moldaner's Camera & Imaging. Driven by the appeal of spelling words using scenes from the city, these class members decided that they should help decorate the Student Affairs office, which had some empty wall space. The pictures are from around New Orleans and represent the class members' time spent here in the city – the city's culture, crawfish boils, Mardi Gras, Jazz, construction, and Katrina. Some of the photos are from the French Quarter, others from St. Charles Avenue, and some were taken at parties held by the class. The picture is now on display in two locations, the Office of Student Affairs and the Dean's Office. Our thanks to Dr. Joseph Delcarpio for providing us with a copy for our use in LSU Medicinews. Rachel Breaux ('10), one of the participants, reports, "We had a great time exploring the city and taking these pictures! I would do it again in a heartbeat!"
